Under President Clevelaud's administration this country imported plans and equipments for war ressels. Under Harrison foreign naval constructors have found it to their advantage to go to school to us. *

In 1869 the standing armies of Europe numbered 6,958,000 men. Now they number 12,568,000, and experts estimate that they will have grown to 23,439,000 by the close of this century, provided, of course, that they do not break loose and destroy each other before that time.

The new life put into the tobacco in-dustry has attendated farmers in the South to a larger cultivation of the weed. In the meantime the Representatives in Congress from that section are planning to knock the tobacco growing business in the head by repealing the McKinley duty on it.

Two British syndicates undertook in turn the construction of a railroad across the Mexican islume and gave the enterprise up in despair. A Yankee company then took hold of the work and has successfully carried it through. Count another triumph for American enterprise and pluck. a¥e

In 1890 there was a deficiency in the postal revenue of $0.200,328. Under Mr. Wasamaker's administration this has been reduced to an estimated deficiency of $278,491 for the fiscal veer 1894, and this has been done notwithstanding the expeasive improvements made in all branches of the postal service.

Mr. Harrity-for which read Grover Cicveind—is eager to ascertain how minety Democratic Representatives in tineaxt Congress who have not yet disclosed their position on aliver coinage are likely to vote on that question. By answering these legislators will doubtless hear something to their advantage. Miss Mary E. Wallace has gone to Fern Leaf to visit Miss Mary Kabler who just re-turned home after a pleasant visit here.

Bourke Cockran's cloquent tribute to President Harrison—"You, who stand before the world to-day a bigh type of the citizenship of this country, a heroic defender of its integrity, an ornament to its maglatracy"—shows the difference hetween a manly opponent and a cowardly enemy like the average Mugwump. Misses Susic Fox and Mnry Mitchell of Maysilok have returned home, having apent two months visiting the family of Captain and Mrs. Geisweiter at Pine Bluff, Ark.

Zebulon B. Vance, the veteran Senator of North Carolina, twiried his eyeglasses nerrously and looked at the celling in his room when saked what he thought of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet. After a moment's reflection he replied: "I approve of some of the appointments and disapprove of others. I think that is a prevalent sentiment among Democrata." Mrs. Cieveland's Bail Dress.

New Yonk, March 8.—Referring to the dress Mrs. Cleveland is to wear at the inangural ball, a morning paper says: The great gown has been completed for weeks. The material is a base in design. Mrs. Cleveland tellested a combination of colors in which bydranges shades are predominant. The akirt is very simple, gored and quite full at the bottom, with a round train. Many women will be struck with the simplicity of the gown wide bretelles and the drocoping shoulders that have recently come in. It is thoroughly American.
